

DunkMalaria at Madison Square Garden

Wednesday, 22 March 2006

It was a special night in New York when the Knicks met the Atlanta Hawks on March 15th. Of course the action on the court was exciting, but the real action was in the stands where thousands of fans dunked basketballs to fight malaria. Fab 5 Freddy took the first shot, and Lance Laifer of Hedge Funds vs. Malaria and DunkMalaria.org was interviewed on MSG TV and ESPN radio. TCS Daily has a good article describing the event and background on the importance of the fight.
